Learning to Learn Mathematics   Reflecting on and appreciating your learning

1. How does wanting something to be true influence your thinking when you're creating models? Why/how?

2. What determines the limitations when it comes to creating and applying mathematical models?

3. Why is variation so important in statistics?